ROUGH PLANS DRAWN FOR NEW POLICE COURT

Judges Scott and Kimball Send Building Inspector Draft of New Quarters.

The Police Court judges, Scott and Kimball, have forwarded to Building Inspector Ashford tentative plans for the new Police Court building, which, according to an act of Congress of the last session, will be constructed on the nt site of the Police Court, also taking in the lot now occupied by the old Webster Building.

The appropriation for the new structure has not yet been made by Congress, but it is believed the work will cost $75,000, and on this basis the judges, with the help of a draftsman, have made their plans. On these rough J. plans, Mr. Ashford will base the specifications which he will soon send out JOHNSON DRUG CO., 3801 New Hampshire ave asking for final plans from various and 2401 Brightwood ave. asking for final plans from various

According to the preliminary araw ings, the building will be two stories high, but will contain a mezzanine floor son sts. for several offices. It will extend 112 feet along D Street and % feet on Sixth The main entrance will be on Sixth Street, although both a privat entrance for the judges and a public entrance will be made on D Street. The entrance will be made on D Street. The building will be located on the building line of D and Sixth Streets, thus making it in the southwest career of the lot. This will permit a driveway to extend entirely around the building, where the vans may unload and load their prisoners By 1.8 mg the entrance for prisoners at the ortheast corner those under arrest will be whilled from public view. In the skeech the locations of the va

In the skeen the best that of the various courtrooms, cells, and offices are indicated, but it is thought that the architects will be allowed to make their own suggestions as to the most symmetrical and convenient arrangement of these compartments.

OLD-FASHIONED MEETING

That distinctive custom of the Methodist Church, now almost abandoned—an old-fashioned camp meeting—is scheduled to begin next Sunday, July 17, and last until July 21. The meeting will be held at Jackson Grove, a mile from Odenton, Md., on the Pennsylvania Railroad, between here and Baltimore.

This point is easily reached by frequent train service and is a beautiful spot of thirty acros, wooded, and watered by several springs. A tabernacle and cottages have been built, and tents and tent That distinctive custom of the Methotages have been built, and tents and cottages have been built, and tents and tent sites will be rented on the ground.

The Rev. J. McLain Brown, of Odenton, secretary-treasurer of the camp meeting corporation, is renting these in advance by mail. Other officers are: Dr. F. T. Tagg, of Baltimore; editor "Methodist Protestant," the Rev. A. A. Bichell, of Baltimore; George W. Wheeler, and H. D. Gordon, of the Central Union Mission, of Washington, D. C.

In addition to the typical camp meeting features, a study of the Bible end Christian work methods will be made, for which the following program has been arranged: July 19, foreign missions; July 21 and 22, Bible studies, conducted by Dr. D. M. Stearns, of Philadelphia; July 26, Christian Endeavor day; July 27, Maryland Sunday School Union, services by President Preston Fiddis and State Superintendent, George N. Hock; July 23, temperance day under direction of Anti-Saloon League, of Baltimore, with an address by Major A. W. Lightbourne, of Wilmington, Del.; July 23, rescue mission work, under direction of Washington Central Union Mission.
